Dear Supporter,

This report actually covers Sept. 1 – Oct. 4 so we can report action taken during our October business meeting.

On the field in Talibon, in addition to all the normal ministry, the mission celebrated its anniversary with a “very” overflow crowd. The building was full, the overflow canopy behind the building was full, and others were sitting to the side of the building under a tree. For the month, Pastor Josol reported two professions of faith. Praise God that He continues to bring in the harvest!

In preparation for their anniversary, the mission added a dirty kitchen area on to the building. They did this with their own labor and with materials they sourced, and so no mission funds had to be spent for this project. We appreciate this initiative on the part of our missionary and mission.

As you know, we had announced 15 months ago we were seeking a second missionary, and since that time have fielded multiple inquiries. For various reasons, we determined it was not God’s will for us to send most of the men who contacted us. However, in our October business meeting we voted unanimously to be the future sending church for Missionary Jelord Rusiana (GEL-ord RUSH-awna).

We made this decision after multiple doctrinal discussions with Missionary Rusiana, as well as hearing details of his profession of faith, having at length discussions with him about what he was looking for in a sending church and what we were looking for in a missionary, hearing his game plan for operating a mission in a financially responsible manner, and conducting an interview with both he and his wife via Zoom. What I’m saying is, this was not a quick decision, but rather one where both sides had put in the time and effort to make sure we are on the same page both doctrinally and practically.

We were recommended to Missionary Rusiana by the brother of our current missionary, who is a pastor. In considering us, Missionary Rusiana spoke to Pastor Josol concerning his experience having us as a sending church.

We called him as our future missionary because he is right now in an interim position and also does not have everything prepared family-wise and work-wise to make his move to a new field. However, calling him now allowed all of us to begin publicly making all the necessary preparations. Our goal is to make this transition in a way that works for everybody involved, and so are working with his current church as preparations are made to get another man in place where he is serving now, and also working with him as he makes personal preparations for the transition. Our wording was that we call him as our missionary with the understanding he will be on the field for us “as soon as it can happen.”

We have not yet set a salary for this second missionary. It will not be a full-time salary, at least in the beginning. He is well aware of this. Between now and when he is actually ready to take the field under our authority, we will be gauging finances as well as the response of you, our supporters. In unofficial discussions, we have been told there is the probability of increased support once a second missionary is a reality. Finances have been holding up well (Thank you!) and so we do not have financial fears as we once again embark on having two missionaries.

As always, we are so very thankful for your support of Bohol Missions. As soon as we here in Charleston organized from a mission into a New Testament church, we put a motion on our books that we would seek “to do missions wherever God opened the door,” and so sending missionaries has been our vision from day one. That you would step into that vision with your finances just truly makes us grateful each month.

May God bless you as you serve Him on your field is our prayer for you.

For the souls,

Rod Dunlap, Pastor
